

Angels shine from without because their spirits are lit from within by the light of God.

